Carnival of Aruba has started more than 66 years ago by some persons that has taken the initiative to take to the roads of Aruba in San Nicolas together with their participants in celebration. These persons soon were looked upon as leader figures of people taking the roads using their inspiration to create costume and music in this traditional celebration that has grown to become part of Aruba's culture by the name of Carnival. Carnival of Aruba is a beautiful mega event.

Carnival of Aruba through the years has known many groups with a leader figure behind each and every one. Leader figures that keep the whole great machinery working for months in preparation until the groups reach finish of the Carnival parades, wrap up everything accordingly and then start preparing for the following Carnival season. These leader figures have heart for Carnival, it's in their blood running through their veins and are fervent participants themselves. They are real Carnavalista's.

Today these Carnavalista's are recognized by putting one of them in the spotlights in whom's case there isn't a way to explain enough how he has/ does built energy, strength and determination. His father Luis Vivian Brown has immigrated from St. Vincent (near by Trinidad) to Aruba for work, married and formed a family with Graciela Peasch of Aruba. This person, Carnavalista that we are referring to is son of this family of nine siblings. Still today many remember seeing him running up and down looking after every detail in preparation and during the parades leading a team solving many abrupt problems. He has been leader pillar of smaller but popular groups like 'The Firefighters' and 'Sailors' but also of bigger groups like 'Coastal Carnival Group' and others. He himself was like Flash and very hard to keep up with only interested in keeping everything running and seeing everybody happy enjoying themselves. A Carnavalista that for his nature of devotion has won the esteem and respect of is family, friends and community. In his case there isn't a way either to explain enough how completely voluntarily he has done everything and not only during Carnival. Like he loves Carnival and his people even more Carnival and people love him. At the Legends Festival 2020 announcing Aruba's Carnival 66 he, together with his family at friends in a Carnival Village full of people, mr. Errol Earl Brown was awarded as a true Carnavalista in body and soul. Congratulations to mr. Errol Earl Brown.
